WANT NEW ROAD ON N. FAIRFAX ST.

Howard W. Smith Makes Plea in Behalf of Chamber of Commerce

WANTS MANAGER'S JOB

Ordinances Providing For Improvement of Fifty-two Sidewalks are Adopted.

Attorney Howard W. Smith, on behalk of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, last night appeared before Common Council and made a plea for the construction of a road on N. Fairfax Street leading to the plants of the Old Dominion Glass Company, Bryant Fertilizer Factory and what was formerly the plant of the General Shipbuilding Corporation. Mr. Smith was given the floor to address the Council at the request of Councilman Fletcher.

Mr Smith among other things said there is no improved street by which you can approach that point, and he added that the glass factory is one of the city's leading buisiness enterprises and he asked if Council could not get together on some action in order that the employees of these plants would not have to wade through mud during the winter months in going to their work. He pointed out that in the event of fire there would be considerable trouble for the engines to reach this point. Mr. Smith asked Council for speedy action on the proposition and President Burke referred the matter to the joint committee on streets and finance with the request that they make a report on the matter at the next meeting of the City Council.

The fiirst application for the position of City Manager of the city was read and received. It came from George L. Rinkliff. The writer at present is business manager of Hampton, Va., and says he has had seven years experience, for five and a half years being secretary to Charles E. Ashburner at Springfield O., the latter now being business manager of Norfolk, Va., Councilman Ticer explained that the present city Council has nothing to do with the matter. The manager will be elected by a city council to be elected next June and this Council will not go into office till September, 1922.

The automobile bureau of the Chamber of Commerce petitioned for signs at Alfred and Franklin, and Patrick and Franklin Streets and it was referred to the Street Committee.

Councilman Desmond offered a resolution appropriating $1,375 for the purchase of pneumatic tires for Engine Companies Nos 1 and 5 and it was referred to the joint committee on fire and finance.

Proposition of Beach Brothers for installation of sanitary boxes was referred to the health committee.

Resolution to extend the fire limits weseward on King Street was referred to the committee on fire and corporation attorney.

The sum of $2,000 was appropriated for the purchas of broken stone for repairs to streets.

Dr. Louis E. Foulke, city health officer, submitted his monthly report showing the health of the city to be in good condition and reviewing the work accomplished by his department during the past month. Ie was referred to the health committee.

Councilman Fletcher introduced a letter addressed to the Washington Board of Trade urging a clean up for Washington for the coming disarmament conference, saying the letter had been submitted to the Chamber of Commerce directors by Leo P. Harlow. Mr. Fletcher urged that Alexandria should take steps to clean up as many of the delegates who will attend the conference and visit Alexandria and he urged that the street committee take up the matter with the city engineer and it was referred to the street committee.

Communication from Capt. L. E. Gardner of the Alexandria Light Infantry calling attention to a carnival to be held by that company the last two weeks of this month at the armory to raise funds to install a heating plant and it was referred to the finance committee. Bill of court expenses in suit of Mrs Daisy Datona Burton amounting to $43.93 was referred to the committee on finance. Petition of Sands and Company for permission to erect garage in rear of 1922 Prince Street was referred to street committee.

Ordinances providing for the improvement of fifty-two sidewalks in different parts of the city were read and adopted. It was provided that the cost of these improvements shall be assessed against the property owners unless the property owners do the work within ten days after being notified by the city engineer.

STATE NEWS

Williamsburg—Organization of the Trinkle Club here featured a mass meeting which was addressed by Senator Lee Trinkle, Democratic nominee for governor in which he scored the Republican candidate on several issues.

" Colonel Anderson can make all the promises he desires," Mr. Trinkle stated, "as he will never have an opportunity to carry them out. I expect to make good all of my promises to the Old Dominion.

G. M. Hall, chairman of the Trinkle club, presented Mr. Trinkle to the audience in the new High School Building here.

Mr. Trinkle referred to the state organization of the Republican party as part of the national organization and explained the wisdom of the policy if that party in excluding the negroes from the convention halls of the Republican party in the South. He declared that such action, especially that in Norfolk, was deliberate and well thought out and devised.

"Henry Anderson may say that he is ashamed of Virginia's star in the American Flag, but I do not want the young people of Virginia to be ashamed of their star in that flag," the speaker told his audience.

Richmond—Roger D. Eastlake, former petty officer in the navy, accused jointly with Miss Sarah E. Knox, Baltimore nurse, of having murdered his wife at Colonial Beach, on September 30, passed a quiet day Sunday. He availed himself of the opportunity to attent services, jail officials said, and afterward was given a chance to exersize.

He was then returned to his cell, where he passed the remainder of the day. His brother, Donald Eastlake, of Philadelphia, called on him during the day.

Miss Knox was also given an invitation to attend devine services, but she said that she was somewhat indisposed and did not care to take advantage of it. She received no visitors during the day, nor did anybody call for her.

Danville—It was learned from a leader in the local republican party that Mrs. Ola B. Fries will be the next deputy collector of internal revenue here. The two local groups of Republicans have agreed and John C. Noell, Collector of Internal Revenue for Virginia, has forwarded her name to Washington for confirmation. Mrs. Fries has, during the past few days been at the office daily familarizing herself in the duties. She expects her commission next week and the bond of $5,000 required by the government will be immediately given. The post pays an annual salary of $1,800.

Richmond—The sale of dog licenses in Virginia amounted to $237,762 according to the annual report submitted to Governor Westmoreland Davis by F. Nash Bilisoly, Commissioner of Game and Inland Fisheries. Of this amount $200,464.03 went into the treasuries of the counties and cities and towns, while 37,298.67 was received by the Department of Game and Inland Fisheries, and used by it in enforcing the laws.

Newport News—Eighty thousand dollars was spent by the city of Newport News during the past twelve months to reconstruct, replace and lay new sewers. This money represents the efforts of the city government to solve one of the worst problems, which new officials faced last September when they assumed office.

Fredericksburg—A good rain fell here Sunday, the first in many weeks. The Rappahannock River here had reached such a low water mark that plants were temporarily put out of commission because of one of the power plants here being unable to obtain sufficient water power to generate its electricity.

Older Boys' Conference

Alexandria Sunday Schools Send Representatives to Lynchburg

Alexandria will be well represented at the Virginia Older Boys' Conference to be held under the auspices of the State Y. M. C. A., at Lynchburg the 14th, 15th and 16th of this month. The conference will be the first state conference held for older boys in Virginia for several years, but it is planned to continue them annually after this year.

Marshall Travers and John Sherman Fowler will represent St. Paul's Sunday School at the conference; Clark Slaymaker the Second Presbyterian Sunday School; Keith Wade, the first Baptist, and it is thought that the M. E. South Sunday School will have at least one delegate. Jackson has been selected by the faculty of the Alexandria High School to represent the student body at the conference.

Secretary Wallace of the local Y. M. C. A., will head the delegation, which will include also delegates from Freedricksburg, Manassas and Culpeper. Mr. Wallace has visited these cities in the interest of the conference and has been promised delegates from each high school. The delegates will leave Friday morning and return Sunday night.

MASONIC VISITORS

Elkins Lodge To Be Banqueted Tonight In Young Peoples' Building

About 100 members of William L. Elkins Lodge No. 646, Masons of Philadelphia, today are the guests of Alexandria-Washington Lodge, and tonight at 9:30 o'clock they will be tendered a banquet in the Young Peoples' Building which it is expected will be attended by 150 local Masons.

The visiting Masons arrived in Washington this morning and were met by a big delegation of local Masons in automobiles and carried through Rock Creek Park. They arrived here early this afternoon and were tendered luncheon in the Young Peoples' Building which was served by members of Martha Washington Chapter No. 42, Eastern Star.

This afternoon the visitors made a motor trip to Mount Vernon, Pohick Church and Camp Humphreys. At 7 o'clock tonight they will attend a meeting of the Alexandria-Washington Lodge when the Master Mason degree will be conferred and at 9:30 o'clock will go to the Young Peoples' Building for the banquet. They will return on a special car to Philadelphia late tonight.

During the banquet out of town talent will put on vaudeville entertainment.

GIANTS AGAIN ROUT YANKEES IN SIXTH GAME

World Series is Again a Tie With Three Games Won By Each. 3 Home Runs

FINAL SCORE 8 to 5

Chick Fewster, Substituting For Babe Ruth, Makes Home Run With One on Base.

New York, Oct. 11.—It may be necessary to put a pink ribbon on the Giants and a blue one on the Yankees. Otherwise folk may grow confused and begin calling them the Gankees and Yiants, for they now look exactly alike. Each team has won three games of the world's series. The Giants climbed up level yesterday by smashing theYankees by a score of 8 to 5.

For just four innings it was anybody's game. Home runs were flying all over the place and endangering the spectators until Jesse Barnes thought of a great idea. "The best way to stop home runs," he reasoned, "is not to let 'em hit the ball at all." Putting his theory into action, he gave a marvelous exhibition of pitching, and in eight and one-third innings he struck out 10 men. He struck out every man in the Yankee line-up except Harper, who did not stay around long enough to come up to the bat, and Frank Baker, the pinch hitter in the ninth. Just for good measure he fanned Erin Ward twice.

Of course, you know Jese Barnes. He is the man who pitches for the

FALL IN WHISKEY

That it is not necessary to take whiskey internally to have it do you damage will be testified to by Policeman Carlton A. Padgett, for Policeman Padgett today is walking around suffering with the badly mashed foot on account of whiskey.

It happened in this way. The police in a recent raid recovered a barrel containing about twenty-five gallons of pure corn liquor. It was needed in the corporation court as evidence. Policeman Padgett picked up the barrel and placed it on his shoulder. The barrel fell mashing his foot, and some of the fluid ran out of the barrel. As a result Policeman Padgett has been off duty since the accident. His injured foot was treated by Dr. R. Lee Wilkins.

ALL DISPUTABLE ISSUES AVOIDED IN IRISH PARLEY

Two Sessions Behind Closed Doors Held Yesterday By Delegates

PEACE OUTLOOK GOOD

British Premier and Leaders of Sinn Fein Strive For a Successful Meeting.

London, Oct. 12.—Ireland and Great Britain faced each other today across a conference table in the famous Cabinet room at 10 Downing street, and the most that can be said is that the prospects for a permanent peace are brighter tonight than they were this morning.

Two sessions were held today, one of two hours this morning and one of an hour and a half this afternoon. At the close of the afternoon meeting the conference adjourned until Thursday morning.

Ireland was represented by Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins, George Gavan Duffy, Eamonn Duggan and Robert Barton, and Great Britain by Prime Minister Lloyd George, Winston Churchill, Lord Birkenhead, Sir Hamar Greenwood, and Sir Worthington Evans. J. Austen Chamberlain, who is a member of the British delegation, was absent on account of illness.

The Irish delegation arrived at Downing street at 11 a. m., in two high price cars, contrasting with the British Ministers, who drove up in taxis. The arrival of the delegation from Erin was greeted with cheers by a crowd of Irish at the entrance to the street, although it was not so large as when Eamonn de Valera came for a conference with Mr. Lloyd George. There was some organized singing of Irish songs.

One fact that emerged from the first meetings is that Griffith and Collins, the two men who count on the Irish side, appeared to be anxious to make the conference a success and the Prime Minister was much impressed, not only by Collins' genial good humor, but his real ability and grasp of his subject.

The two delegates faced each other across a table. There was no chairman, but Mr. Lloyd George made a little opening speech of welcome to which Mr. Griffith replied. There was some discussion about the agenda and certain breaches of the truce in Ireland were mentioned by both sides. The leaders of each side disclaimed any desire to protect the guilty and it was arranged that a conference be held tomorrow between the officials to find methods for getting a better observance of the truce.

The officials who have had much to do with bringing aboutt he conference were distinctly happier over the prospects last night.

Throughout the meetings the two provocative words were not used—"sovereignty," by the British and "independence" by the Irish. An interesting suggestion was made today that the break up of the conference on these rocks may be avoided by confining the discussion to the future relations of Ireland and Great Britain and leaving the definition of teh present relationship to the last. Thus Ireland might consent to enter the British commonwealth of nations and, having done so, Great Britain might alow it to sign a treaty as an independent nation.

Another rock is the extreme suspicion of the Irish and the fear that they will be outmaneuvered by Lloyd George. The Premier recognizes this, and he is ready to exercise the utmost patience and all of his arts to win their confidence.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Washington, Oct. 12.—When President Harding does not wish to answer any question put to him and which might prove embarrassing if a reply were given he usually turns the inquiry aside in a happy manner. During his bi-weekly conference with the Washington correspondents yesterday, one of the newspaper men asked him if a formal invitation had been sent to former President Wilson to participate in the ceremonies connected with the burial of the unknown American soldier at Arlington on Armistice Day, Nov. 11.

"Whom do you think will win the world series, the Giants or the Yankees?" asked the President by way of reply to his interrogator.

In explaining to the newspaper men that the preparations for the forthcoming conference on the limitation of armaments were not In the finished stage, Secretary of State Hughes declared the other day that they were in the "yeasty state' and that the "bread was not baked yet."

"Oh, I see," replied one of the correspondents, "you mean in the Far Easty stage, Mr. Secretary," and the head of the State Department exhibited a wide expanse of teeth.

It is remarkable to what extremes some people will go to pull off some cheap advertising stunt. This was illustrated at the White House yesterday when a large van pulled up in front of the Executive Mansion containing a rather obscure make of piano. The manager or salesman of the company was on hand with a camera man and as the instrument was lifted out of the van by half a dozen husky negroes all dolled up in brand new uniforms for the occasion, the manager signaled the camera man, the latter got busy and three or four pictures of the piano being wheeled into the White House were taken. Of course, it is needless to say that teh name of the instrument will figure rather prominently in the advertising columns of the papers within the next few days. Spectators were somewhat amazed at the audacity of the incident and wondered why the White House officials permitted it to be staged.

Major M. A. Frank, who was the right-hand man to Major General C. T. Menoher while the latter was Chief of the Air Service, tells this joke on himself:

"During the World War at some civilian celebration I was greeted very effusively by a dapper young tailor, who said:

"Major Frank, I am glad to see you again. I'll bet you don't know me. I made your pants,'"

After acknowledging the greetings, Major Frank turned to several of his fellow officers and in turn introduced his new found friend as "Major Pants." The tailor was much flattered at this unexpected honor and promotion but "beat it" before his identity became generally known.

Senator France, of Maryland, is one of those legislators who believes in keeping himself in physical trim for any emergency. Incidentally, he is a physician. He spends part of each day in the early morning hours in calisthenics. It is also reported around the Capitol that the Maryland Senator has another form of exercise, puts on the gloves and at times "goes to the mat" with some of his athletic colleagues who pride themselves as being past masters of the gentle art of boxing. Senator France is an advocate of preparedness and he may know some good reason why it is wise to be schooled in the gentle art of self defense. He has had some rather rough experience "sparring" with the numerous applicants for federal jobs from his home state.

When Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, gets into action it is dangerous for any of his colleagues to be seated nearby. With reckless abandon he swings his arms and smashes his fists hitting tops of desks and other objects as he parades up and down the aisles. During one of the Arkansas Senator's orations the other day, Senator Ransdell, of Louisiana was seated in the vicinity of Robinson's desk. Robinson made several vicious swings to emphasize some point, and one of his uppercuts barely missed Senator Ransdell. With a smile, Senator Ransdell gathered up his books and papers and sought a seat some distance from the fiery Arkansan, generally known as the "acrobatic orator."

Secretary of Labor Davis served at one time in his career as a puddler in one of the rolling mills in the vicnity of Pittsburgh. He is a self-made man, pure and simple and is now head of the Loyal Order of Moose.

U.S. DELEGATES ON LIMITATION TO MEET TODAY

Initial Conference To Be Held in Office of Secretary of State Hughes

FORESEE TAX CUT

American Members Hope For Reduction of Taxes and Less Friction.

The preliminaries of the Washington conference on the limitation of armament will be set in motion today, when the American delegation will hold its first meeting at Secretary Hughes' office to consider questions of policy and procedure.

Upon President Harding and the American delegates—Secretary of State Hughes, Elihu Root and Senators Lodge and Underwood—devolves teh responsibility of leadership in this great international gathering, and there will be an early meeting between the Executive and the delegation to discuss the policy to be pursued in guiding the deliberations to a successful conclusion. Also to be discussed with the President is the composition of the advisory commission which will include representatives of the army and navy, and authorities on international law and Far Eastern questions.

"We have no ulterior motives and when the conference meets the other nations will find our cards on the table face up," said one of the highest officials of the govern-ment yesterday. "We believe that it ought to be possible to reach an agreement to limit armament, the cost of which is becoming a grievous burden for peoples to bear, and to remove causes of international friction and misunderstanding which stand in the way of an agreement on the reduction of armament. Whether the objects are actually attainable remains to be seen, but in any event, we purpose to afford the assembled nations a free and unfettered opportunity to reach the end desired."

President Harding views the conference as an effort to prevent the natural and commendable rivalry between the divers races bordering the Pacific from reaching the stage of armed conflict.

His conception, which he incorporated in his address to the Press Congress of the World at Honolulu, follows:

"We have heard much in recent years about the problem of the Pacific, whatever that may be. I take it to be merely a phase of the universal problem of the race, of men and nations wherever they are. It is hard to imagine justifications in this day and age, especially in view of the world's late unhappy experiences, for armed conflict among civilized peoples anywhere and especially among peoples so widely separated as those on opposite borders of the Pacific. They represent different races, social organizations, political systems and modes of thought.

"Between them and their widely varying systems there may well be an amicable competition to determine which community possesses the better and more effective ideas for human advancement. But that there should be conflict; that warfare and controversy should interfere with this worth-while demonstration of the value of different modes of progress, is almost unthinkable. The Pacific ought to be the seat of a generous, free, open-minded competition betwen the best ideals of eastern and western life; between the aspirations and endeavors of the oldest and the newest forms of human society."

The American delegation will begin study of a large volume of data on the limitation of armament and Pacific and Far Eastern questions prepared by the State, War and Navy Departments.

Proceeding on the basis that the United States will not halt navy building except in agreement with other naval powers, the navy general board has worked out several alternative plans of the limitation or construction.

The one most generally favored by the naval authorities is a pro-rata limitation. Under this plan the British navy would be ranked first in strength, the American second and the Japanese third. Each of these nations would be obligated not to increase its naval strength beyond its present status in a certain designated future year. Each nation would be allowed so many dreadnaughts, so many cruisers, so many destroyers, so many submarines and so on through the various classes of vessels.

TODAY'S THOUGHT The world is a comedy to those who think, a tragedy to those who feel.

Horace Walpole.

OUR SUBURBAN NEIGHBORS

The Virginia Highlands Citizens Association is evidently wide awake to the needs of the municipality whose name it bears. Its regular monthly meetings are as full of meat as a cocoanut, and the live wires in attendance charged with a high voltage. At its last meeting, held on the third inst., various matters were taken up, notably the improvement of the Alexandria Pike from the Highway Bridge to Virginia High lands. It seems that certain money appropriated for resurfacing that portion of the road, at present a cobblestone stretch of about a mile, had been diverted to highways adjacent to the city of Richmond. From the animated debate and the action taken, we are willing to wager that something will happen and happen soon!—The "all night parking parties," which are a burning disgrace to the entire motoring public, and which affect Alexandria, were discussed, and measures advocated for their abolishment. The Gypsy camping caravans were likewise taken up, with a view to preventing their recurrence another year. Additional schools were also under consideration, and the Citizens Association are evidently alive to that most important subject.

The most interesting feature of the meeting, perhaps, was the discussion of the possible encroachment of a certain brick company on property contiguous to the residential portion of Virginia Highlands and Aurora Hills, two of Alexandria's most esteemed neighbors. This Company, it was claimed, purposes to excavate clay from a certain ten acre tract, paralleling the railroad track from Addison Station to Virginia Highlands Station. The statement was made that this would result in unsightly and mosquito-infected holes that would greatly lessen the value of the adjacent real estate, and affect the health of the community in general. A temporary injunction has already been granted by the Court, restraining the Brick Company from crossing the road by tramway. If this injunction is not perpetuated, it is the purpose of the Citizens Association to fight the case to the highest court.

The Gazette tenders its sympathy and best wishes to the citizens of the towns interested. Its columns will always be open to them on this as well as all other matters pertaining to their welfare.

The destinies of Alexandria are intimately interwoven with those of its suburbs to the north.

COLUMBUS DAY

Today is Columbus Day. Four hundred and twenty-nine years ago Christopher Columbus discovered a new world! A little reflection today, directed to one of the world's great heroes, cannot fail to be beneficial. The man who overcame all obstacles; who persuaded the monarchs of a mighty nation to do his bidding; who, footsore, hungry, sneered at and reviled, finally crossed the trackless ocean for the first time in history, and rendered possible the building of the greatest nation of modern times—this man, we say, is worthy of a tribute from every American on to-day's anniversary.

Dyes and Defense

(From Phila. Public Ledger)

Enemies of the move to give special and extraordinary protection to the dye industry are waging a bitter battle on the grounds that such protection will place American consumers at the mercy of American plants. There is something in the argument but has the country so quickly forgotten the lesson of the war in the matter of dyes and chemicals.

America relied entirely upon German dyestuffs before 1914. The German plants had slain calmly all attempts at creating an American dye industry. They had seriously handicapped the American chemical industry also.

Recall 1915-16-17 drug and chemical prices. Carbolic acid rose to unheard of figures. Coal-tar products in general soared to the ceiling and stayed there. Dyes immediately rose in prices and refused to come down. Dyes were hoarded; hidden in deposit vaults.

Why? Because we had a few chemical works of importance and no dye-making plants. We found it necessary to start from the foundations. Men had to be trained, processes improvised and ten years of research and experimentation done in two.

Germany's chemical and dye plants were the most powerful of all the German arms for war. In the end they counted for more than Austria's Skodas or the Krupps of Essen. Modern war is a battle of chemicals and explosives, gases and formulae.

The world is talking disarmament but it has not disarmed. A nation without its own dye and chemical resources is a helpless agglomeration of humanity in case of trouble. Blockades can render it helpless, for it takes time to create such industries after an emergency comes.

Unless we want the rejuvenated German firms to walk calmly in and take over the business they had prior to 1914, the business that Americans have now taken over, there must be a very high tariff or an embargo. It doesn't matter greatly which, but one or the other is necessary.

The Germans want that business back. They are prepared to, as of old cut rates and cut them again to get it. Do we want to drift back into the same helpless shape we were in 1914-1917?

NEW PROPHYLAXIS FOR DIPTHERIA

The use of a diphtheria prophylaxis which immunizes probably for life, has been noted by the department of public health in its report for the month of August. The new prophylaxis, which is known as toxin antitoxin, was discovered about two years ago, according to Dr. P. S. Schenck, director of public welfare. The prophylaxis is given in three doses, at intervals of about a week.

Another discovery reported by the health department's report is the Schick test, by which it can be ascertained if the subject is subject to or immune from diphtheria.

"May we ask those of the medical profession who have not investigated fully the value of the Schick test and the toxin-antitoxin," the health department asks, "to do so and lend the public, particularly the school children their co-operation in the control of diphtehria."

Modern methods of treating diphtheria have brought the mortality rate down in twenty years from 150 per 100,000 of population to 21 per 100,000, the health department reports.

THE CHILDREN'S GIFT

In the little Frence town of Frense, near which lies the beautiful American Cemetery of Romagne with its white crosses marking the final resting place of thousands of heroes of the Word War, the girls and boys of the Junior American Red Cross have established a children's library. It was on the 30th of last May—America's Memorial Day—that the Fresne library was formally opened. The exercises began with an out-of-doors service. Little girls in white dresses with long veils, with white wreaths scattered roses along the path and it was over this carpet, when vespers were finished, that the children marched to the library. They fluttered in their white gowns from the shelves back to the table like so many white apple-blossom petals blown along by a merry spring wind. The room was filled with sunlight drifting through the window curtains. It is a room with cardboard walls and over the rack filled with many colored A. B. C. books, the children saw at once the huge poster of three American Sailor Boys on the back of a gaudy, decorative elephant, seeing the world.

The furniture, sent by the High School of Maldin, Mass., was admired and appreciathed and the children were greatly pleased when told how the American High School boys worked after school hours to polish and complete the furniture. The tables were soon covered with scattered books chosen by the 34 excited youngsters enrolled on the first day. They pushed and crowded around the librarian's desk, each reading the vow to take care of the books and hardly able to finish before another one started.

"May we really choose the books? Are we to take them home?," they asked. They were in a constant flutter as the Junior Red Cross lady at the desk tried calmly to put them on paper as numbers and statistics instead of children overwhelmed by the surprises of the day.

The French children in the war zone lost the habit of study and concentration during the four years when there were no schools for them, and their lives have been so full of dramatic excitement that they cannot grasp the meaning of a closely written page. Their books must have pictures, and a strong personal appeal. But more and more the Junior Red Cross library at Fresne is coming into use and recently additional tables have had to be put in to accomodate the numerous readers.

How to Be Healthy

The Crusade of the Double-Barred Cross
Practical Talks on Disease Prevention

Prepared by the
VIRGINIA TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

(Practically every adult person is infected with tuberculosis. This infection need not be a source of danger. To keep the latent infection from becoming disease, bodily resistance must be kept at its best. This series of articles shows you how to keep healthy.)

WHAT IS TUBERCULOSIS?

DR. LAWRASON BROWN, Saranac Lake, N. Y.

TUBERCULOSIS is a disease caused by a germ, discovered by Robert Koch in 1882, which early in its course produces little modules, called tubercles. It is widely distributed throughout the world, and attacks man more severely when he abandons a nomadic or outdoor life and lives in large centers of civilization.

There are two varieties of the tubercle germ that attack men, the human germ and the cattle germ. The cattle germ, while rarely affecting adults, causes annually the death of about 10,000 children and infants in the United States. It is conveyed by milk, and is killed by boiling or pasteurizing the milk.

The chief source of the human tubercle germ is the sputum coughed up by the consumptive and deposited only too often on sidewalks and floors. The germ gains entrance into the body by inhalation of the fine droplets of sputum coughed out by the consumptive, by the inhalation of dried sputum in the form of dust and by the transference through dirty fingers of the particles of sputum in the dirt of the streets and houses, from balls, tops and other playthings, to the mouth.

The younger the child, the more readily he is infected and the more often he mouths the objects he soils in the dirt in play. By the age of puberty two-thirds to three-quarters of all children have had the germ in their bodies, but only a small percentage of these develop the disease. It is estimated that 2,000,000 persons in the United States have tuberculosis today, and without doubt many contracted it first in childhood. It is not safe, however, to conclude as some would have us do, that adults cannot catch consumption, for a rather large percentage may owe the disease in their lungs to an infection in later life.

These facts serve to emphasize the importance of good hygienic living, and the avoidance of overstrain of any sort, whether work, pleasure or play. When man lives in the open he seldom develops pulmonary tuberculosis, but when he changes this for indoor life he may succumb. The boy and girl who play and live much out of doors have little tuberculosis until they become thirteen or fourteen years old. It then increases as the anxieties of school, the burden of work, and the overindulgence in pleasure make more demands on the body, until it is most frequent between the twentieth and thirtieth year. It is then that people are most confined, and most often overwork or overplay.

A return to the outdoor life, to the simple pleasures, the avoidance of self-indulgence in any way, may quickly restore a threatened individual to health. If he once develops the disease it can be cured, but it requires time, patience and self-denial. Rest of body and mind, education in regard to what is safe and what is dangerous, good food and fresh air are the medicines that restore health. Intelligent medical supervision, freedom from care and worry, confidence in recovery, conscientiousness in carrying out every detail given by the physician, work miracles, as thousands can testify who have fallen ill of tuberculosis, but who have fought the good fight and won out.

The Man Who Said:
"The proof of the pudding is in the eating"— was only half through

He started a good pudding-proof, but he didn't finish it.

There's a lot of trouble in the world from puddings that taste good but don't do good.

They "eat" well, but that ends the recommendation.

Sanitariums are full of pudding-eaters who stopped the test at taste and forgot to inquire whether their food gave the body what it needed—until the body rebelled.

Grape-Nuts is a food that tastes good and does good. The proof of Grape-Nuts begins in the eating and goes on through the splendid service which Grape-Nuts renders as a real food. Grape-Nuts is the perfected goodness of wheat and malted barley—delicious to taste, easy to digest, and exceptionally rich in nourishment for body and brain.

CONVENIENCES FOR HOUSEHOLD COMFORT

The little mechanical devices that assist in making housework less of a burden are rapidly becoming so within reach of all, that every home boasts some of them.

And the workmanship is improving at the same time. One of the newest ideas is a sewing machine (with a motor) that folds into a neat table, that makes a very pretty console for the dining room.

Of course, electric irons are a joy, There are the two sizes, one for the household and the other for the traveler.

Helps For Baby

One can imagine sevral little comforts for the mother, whose baby's cry awakes her in the night. With a switch with a double socket she could turn on a little heater for her toes and a softly shaded light. Another outfit would heat a clever little bottle warmer so that in great coziness and comfort the little ones could be cared for and quickly sent to sleep again.

For the table there are several practical appliances. The lamp and coffee percolator are two of these. A waffle iron and a grill are wonderful helps at the breakfast hour, with their appetizing odors sent into the air.

One of the new table accessories is an electric tea pot with its own tea ball. The tea ball is held on a chain through the knob at the top. When the tea is steeped, the tea ball can be raised and caught, so it will be free from the water, and not make the tea too strong.

Gas Appliances

Where electricity is not available there are several very convenient gas appliances. One of these is the gas iron, and another is a light portable heater with copper facing so that it sends out a cherry glow. Of course the gas stove will have its clever little lighter, so that pressing a button lights the burners as the gas is turned on. With the gas stove comes a good kitchen heater for cold mornings, and also a modern kitchen contains a good incinerator.

So it would seem that with a well planned house the modern woman should be far freer than her grandmother, who was not fortunate enough to possess all these labor-saving devices.

While making a visit to New York a man unmistakably of country origin was knocked down in the street by an automobile. A crowd instantly surrounded him with condolences and questions.

"Are you hurt, my friend?" kindly asked a gentleman, who was first among the rescuers, as he helped the stranger to his feet and brushed the mude and dust from his clothes.

"Well," came the cautious reply of one evidently given to non-committal brevity of speech, "it ain't done me no good.—Harper's.

Giants when Toney gets knocked out of the box. There is never any slip up on the cue. The instant Toney wags his head and begins to walk to the bench Barnes starts to trot in from centerfield. He seems to be an understudy who may be counted upon to improve the original cast. The Yankees also found it necessary to employ an understudy, "Babe" Ruth, the star of the troupe, was unable to play on account of his injured arm. He was anixous to keep going, but the doctors warned him that if he kept up he might be permanently crippled.

"Chick" Fewster, of Baltimore, got up the role on one days' notice and gave a capital performance. He was able to duplicate much of Ruth's business and in the second inning he made a home run. In the first he made a marvelous running catch of Young's foul fly. This was his own idea. It has not hitherto been a part of the plot.

Lynchburg—A coroner's inquest today into the cause of the deaths of five city employees who were killed yesterday when a wall, which was being torn down, suddenly collapsed returned a verdict, holding that the deaths were due to an accident, which resulted from the lack of proper precautions.

Lynchburg—The city council here has amended the city code so as to parallel the state laws with ordinances by which all prohibition cases now becomes munncipal cases, throwing them into the poliece court instead of the Corporation Court and making fines available for the city instead of going to the state.

Petersburg—Captain Percy B. Lanier, commander of the Petersburg Grays, has accepted the appointment as major of the Second Batallion First Infantry, Virginia National Guard, tendered him by Governor Davis several days ago.

A telegram from Dublin tonight states that the Sinn Fein has decided to postpone Ard Feis, or the national general meeting, from October 18 to 27. This is interpreted as a good sign in London, for Ard Feis' decisions will have much influence on the future course of the Sinn Fein politicians, and it is believed they wish to be unhampered during the negotiations.

850 DISASTER DEATH TOLL FOR ONE YEAR

Red Cross Gives $1,871,000 Relief When 65,000 Families Are Made Homeless.

Forty-three disasters, resulting in the death in the United States of 850 persons and the injury of 2,500 called for emergency relief measures and the expenditure of $1,871,000 by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, says an announcement based upon the forthcoming annual report of the Red Cross. These disasters caused property damage estimated at $30,000,000, affected sixty-seven communities and rendered 65,000 families homeless.

The year's disasters were of varying types, including several which previously had never been thought of as falling within that classification. The Red Cross furnished relief in seventeen fires of magnitude, five floods, seven tornadoes or cyclones, one devastating storm, three explosions, including the one in Wall street; one building accident, two typhoid epidemics, the most serious being that at Salem, Ohio, which affected 9 per cent of the population; one smallpox epidemic, in the republic of Haiti; one train wreck, the race riot at Tulsa, Okla.; the famine in China, emergency relief in famine among the Indians of Alaska, the grasshopper plague in North Dakota and an earthquake in Italy.

Pueblo Most Serious

By far the most severe of the disasters in the United States during the period covered by the Red Cross report was the Pueblo flood early in June, 1921. The rehabilitation problem confronting the Red Cross in Pueblo was one of the most difficult in recent years. When the first news of the horror was flashed throughout the country, the American Red Cross National Headquarters responded with a grant of $105,000 for relief work. Governor Shoup of Colorado, appreciating the long and successful experience of the Red Cross in organizing disaster relief work, placed the entire responsibility for the administration of relief in its hands.

In response to appeals from President Harding, Governor Shoup and other governors of western states and through local chapters of the Red Cross and other community organizations, public-spirited citizens brought the total contributed for Pueblo's rehabilitation to more than $325,000.

The terrible havoc wrought by the flood waters is a matter of record. More than 2,300 homes were affected and 7,351 persons were left homeless. Estimates of $500,000 as an absolute minimum for rehabilitation were made by Red Cross officials in charge of the relief work.

Fast Work in Wall Street

The Wall street explosion was notable in that relief workers of the Red Cross were on the scene twenty minutes after the disaster occurred. The race riot at Tulsa also was unique in disaster relief annals in that outside of a small emergency relief fund contributed by the Red Cross, the only relief measures outside the city consisted of the service of social workers, nurses and a trained executive whose object was to assist local forces in directing their own efforts.

In decided contrast with the previous year, only one tornado assumed the proportions of a major disaster. This occurred on April 15, in the border sections of Texas and Arkansas with the city of Texarkana as the center. The significant feature of this disaster relief work was the fact that it covered so much rural territory as to make necessary a large number of relief workers.

The famine in China, necessitating relief expenditures totalling more than $1,000,000 by the American Red Cross was by far the most serious of the foreign disasters in which the Red Cross gave aid.

Builds Up Its Machinery

In connection with the administration of disaster relief measures, an increasing effectiveness on the part of the Red Cross to deal with emergencies was manifested during the past year. In 328 Chapters of the American Red Cross there have been formed special committees to survey the resources of their respective communities and to be prepared in case of disaster. In others of the 3,402 active Chapters, a network of communication has been formed through which instantaneous relief may be dispatched to any part of the United States.

That its work in this field may be continued with ever greater effectiveness, the American Red Cross is appealing for widespread renewal of membership during its Annual Roll Call, to be conducted this year from November 11 to 24.

LIFE SAVING CORPS ENROLLMENT 10,000

Growth of Red Cross Life Saving Corps throughout the country continued unabated during the last fiscal year, a summary of the year's achievements by that Red Cross Service shows. There are now 160 Corps with a total membership of more than 10,000 members, of which 1,276 are sufficiently skilled in the work to act as examiners. Among the outstanding achievements of the Red Cross in this field during the last year was the organization at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, of what is perhaps the largest life saving corps in the world.

COLUMBUS DAY

(For the Gazette)

Wednesday, Oct. 12, 1921, marks the 429th anniversary of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus.

Colorado was the first of the states to enact legislation setting aside October 12 as a memorial to Columbus. Governor Buchtel signed the Columbus Day bill in 1909.

Before the close of 1909, Illinois, Virginia, Connecticut, California, Massachusetts, Missouri, Michigan, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania added Columbus Day to their list of holidays.

Kentucky, Ohio, Maryland, Washington and Rhode Island legalized Columbus Day in 1910. Delaware, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Oregon, Idaho, Indiana, Alabama, Kansas, West Virginia, Texas and Arkansas took action in 1911, and Vermont, Montana, Wisconsin, Iowa and Louisiana soon followed. Oklahoma, Arizona, South Dakota and Nevada brought the list to 36, a two-thirds majority of the states North Dakota legalized the holiday in 1919.

The first monument to the memory of Columbus was erected in Baltimore by Gen. Charles Francis Adrien le Paulmier d' Armour an officer of Lafayette. In 1907 Congressman McCleary of Minnesota introduced a bill authorizing a fitting memorial in Washington to the memory of the discoverer.

A beautiful Columbus monument in Washington was unveiled June 8, 1912.

Plans for the advancement and promotion of the observance of Columbus Day' includes patriotic exercises of an appropriate nature in the public schools and by civic bodies.

The success of the movement t enact Columbus Day legislation in the states is due to the activities of t Knights of Columbus of which America's discoverer is regarded as the patron.

The Knights of Columbus, which was founded in 1882, has more than three-quarters of a million members.

If Women Only Knew

What a Heap of Happiness It Would Bring To Alexandria Homes.

Hard to do housework with an aching back.

Brings you hours of misery at leisure or at work.

If women only knew the cause—that

Bachache pains often come from weak kidneys.

'Twould save much needless woe.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for weak kidneys. Ask your neighbor!

Read what an Alexandria citizen says:

Mrs. F. M. Entwisle, 1007 Gibbon St., says: "The pains in my back were something awful and no matter how I turned I couldn't get rid of them. There was a sore and lame feeling and a heavy, bearing-down ache in my back all the time. My head felt as though somebody were pounding it and I became very nervous. I had dizzy spells, too. The way my kidneys acted bothered me a lot and caused me no little pain. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills gave me relief and by the time I had finished the second box all my kidney trouble had left me; I was entirely cured."

THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES

The Feast of Tabernacles, or Succoth, as it is called in Hebrew, occurs this year on October 17th, and continues for a period of seven days with a Festival of Conclusion on the eighth day. The first and last days are observed in the Synagog. This festival is a feast of rejoicing, the original Thanksgiving Day, harking back to the remote antiquity of Israel when he dwelt in Palestine and tilled the soil. As a harvest festival its characteristic note is a thankful spirit for the gain harvested and garnered, for the blessings of vineyard and olive grove for the increase of the fields and orchards.

The Biblical source of the Festival of Tabernacles is found in Leviticus 23: 34-35, which commands the Israelites to celebrate the 15th day of the seventh month of the ancient Hebrew Calendar, with a Feast of Tabernacles by dwelling in booths seven days, in order to remind them that Gad caused the children of Israel to dwell in booths when He brought them out of the land of Egypt.

Many observant Jews obey the Biblical command literally and dwell in booths, or temporary dwellings, called Succoth, during the seven days of the festival. In them, they offer their daily prayer and partake of their meals.

The harvest character of the festival is also clearly shown in the symbols which each worshipper brings to the Synagog, or which are exhibited from the pulpit. These symbols are the "ethrog," or citron: branches of the stately palm tree, "lulav;" sprigs of the fragrant myrtle; and boughs of the humble willow of the brook.

In many reform congregations, the pulpits are elaborately decorated with fruits and vegetables; and the children of the religious school participate in the children's harvest festival.

The Festival of Conclusion, which terminates the Feast of Tabernacles on the eighth day, is called, in Hebrew, Shemini Atzereth. Various conjectures are put forth regarding its intent. There is no definite object stated in the Bible. But it was undoubtedly intended to give a sense completion to the whole series of holy days of this season of the year.

WILLIAM AND MARY NOTES

Wiliamsburg, Va., Oct. 10.—During the visit of President Harding to the historic colege of William and Mary on October 19 to speak at the installation of Dr. J. A. C. Chandler as president of that institution, he will be entertained by Dr. Chandler at the old president's house, the oldest house, the oldest house in the country used exclusively as the home of a college president.

The President's house, as it has been known for nearly two hundred years, was built in 1732, and since that time has been visited or occupied by many of America's most distinguished men. During the last days of the Revolutionary War, it was occupied by Cornwallis, and later by Geenral Washington. LaFayette also used it as his headquarters, and during its occupancy, by French troops, it was accidently burned. Later it was restored at the private cost of Louis VI of France. Practically every governor of Virginia has been a guest at the old mansion When he was made a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society last December, Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, spent a night within its solid brick walls.

The impending visit will be the first time an American president accompanied by his wife, has visited the President's house at William and Mary, since John Tyler was president of the United States. Mrs. Harding it is known, will be with the President of this trip.

A distinguished group of men and women prominenet in civil and official life will be invited to meet President and Mrs. Harding at the ancient mansion.

University of Va. Notes

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 12.—John Lloyd Newcomb, professor of civil engineering at the University of Virginia, has been named by President Edwin A. Alderman to represent the University at the installation of Dr. J. A. C. Chandler as president of William and Mary College at Williamsburg, October 1th.

Mr. Newcomb is an alumnus of William and Mary, receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree from that institution in 1900. He is a graduate of the school of Civil Engineering at the University and has been a professor in that department of the Centennial Celebration committee and directed the staging of that and directed the staging of that last June.

Camp Humphteys Notes

Major General Mason M. Patrick delivered a brief address at the Liberty Tehater, Sunday evening, October 9th, in bidding farewell to the members of the garrison and vicinity of camp. The General has been commander of the post since the first of July and now takes up his new duty as Chief of the Air Service. He has been succeeded by Colonel James A. Woodruff, C. E.

In addition to the General's address, the 13th Engineer Band played Safuanske's "Atlanta" and "Ivanevici's "Danube Waves," and Staff Sergeant Gregorio Vega and Musician Jose Vargas played as a cornet and trombone solo Campara's "See The Pale Moon." Motion pictures featured Pola Negri in Passion."

The Camp Humphreys Railroad to Mount Vernon has discontinued operation owing to the introduction of bus line to Alexandria from camp by the Washington-Alexandria Transit Comapny.

Colonel Edward R. Schreiner and family, spent the week end on a motor trip to Philadelphia, visiting Mr. Edward R. Schreiner, Jr., at Tome School, Maryland, enroute. Colonel Schreiner is under orders to proceed to Fort Crook, Omaha, Nebraska, for duty at the Corps Area Headquarters there; he has been for over two years chief of the station hospital here, and will be succeeded by Lieutenant Colonel John B. Huggins, M. C.

Laughs !

Germany calls reparations "Weidergutmachungsleistungen." Naturally it comes hard.—Knoxville Journal and Tribune.

"What is this 'white terror' in Bavaria?"
"White sausage at 50 marks a pound."—Simplicissimus (Munich.)

Ethel—"You can't judge a man by the way he dresses."
Mary—"Oh, I don't know! I can tell a gentleman by his get-up in a crowded car!"—Judge (New York).

English is to be the official language at the Washington Disarmament Conference, but interpreters will be provided for those who can only speak American.—Eve (London).

A colloquialism that should be banished is "springing a joke." Most jokes of to-day do not spring; they are pushed and fall helpless a few feet away.—Chicago Journal of Commerce.

He was more religious than educated and so not t obe too greatly censured for this "testimony" at prayer meeting: "I thank the Lord that I have three wives in heaven."—The Epworth Herald.

"Now look here, Johnson, this man is doing double the work you do."
"That's what I've been telling him, sir; but he won't stop."—The Christian Register (Boston).

Visitor, in early morning, after week-end, to chauffeur—"Don't let me miss my train."
Chauffffeur—"No danger, sir. The Mistress said if I did, it'd cost me my job."—London Opinion.

Gloria—"Where are those wonderful servants of fifty years ago, that mother talks of?"
Flavia—"Oh, my dear! Don't you know? Why! They're having servan trouble of their own!"—London Mail.

"How do you manage to make both ends meet," we said to the happy little housekeeper.
"Oh, but I don't make both ends meet," she corrected. "I keep house like the United States, and never make ends meet."
"Lik the United States?" we queried puzzled.
"Yes; I get what I want whether I can afford it or not, and then at the end of the year I give my husband a deficiency bill. You know; just like Congress does every session, to make the public think it has lived within its income." Whereat we were lost in admiration.—Leslie's.

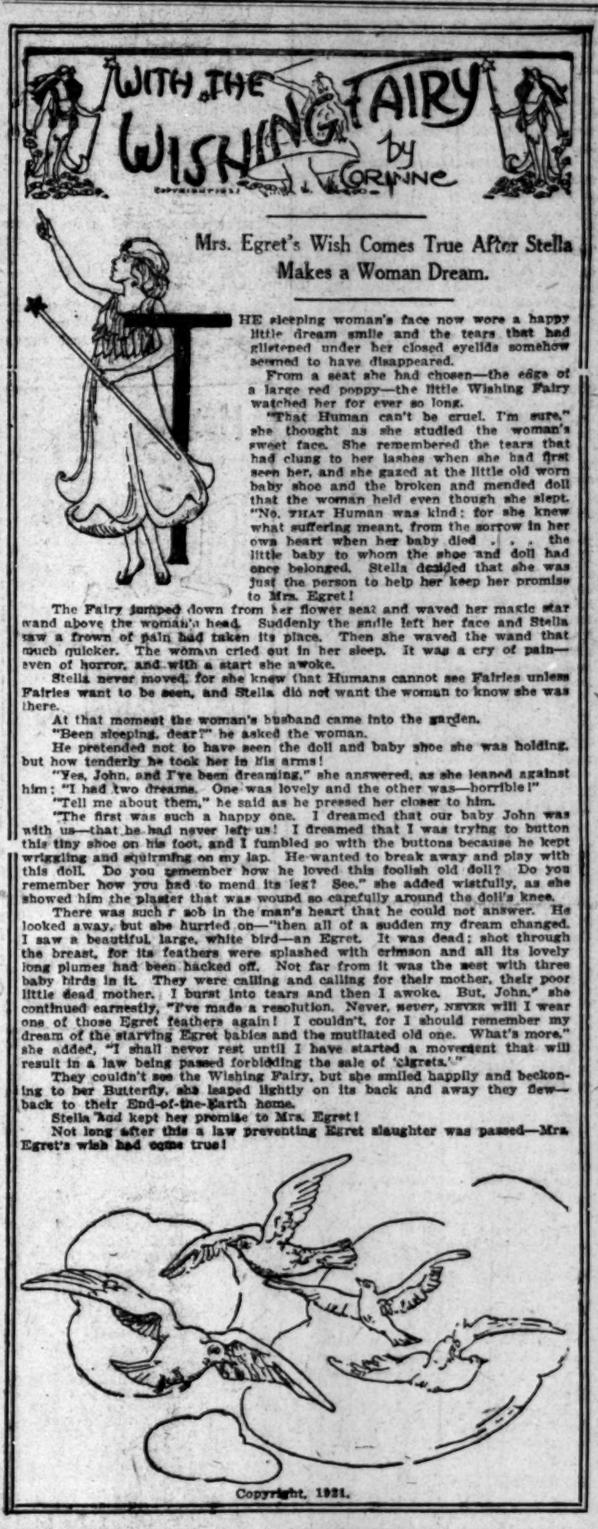
"Yessir, eighty-two, I be, an' every tooth in my 'ead same as th' day I were born."—London Mail.

"Sharks are not dangerous if kept amused or interested." states a weekly journal. Great care should be taken, however, when one of these creatures is invited to take part in a game of "snap."—The Passing Show (London).

Irate Golfer—"You must take your children away from here, Madam—this is no place for them."
Mother—"Now don't you worry—they can't 'ear nothin' new—their father was a sergeant-major, 'e was!"—London Opinion.

Sambo—"Looky heah, big boy, don't yo-all mess wid me, 'cause Ah's hard! Las' week Ah falls on a buzz saw an' Ah busts it— com-plete-ly."
Rambo—"Call dat hard? Listen, man, Ah scratches de bath tub."—The American Legion Weekly.

"When do you intend to make another speech?"
"Not before the holidays," replied Senator Sorghum. "Things out home are getting into such a state of agitation that about the only really sincere remark a statesman can make to his constituents is 'Merry Christmas.'"—Washington Star.



Mrs. Egret's Wish Comes True After Stella Makes a Woman Dream.

THE sleeping woman's face now wore a happy little dream smile and the tears that had glistened under her closed eyelids somehow seemed to have disappeared.

From a seat she had chosen—the edge of a large red poppy—the little Wishing Fairy watched her for ever so long.

"That Human can't be cruel. I'm sure," she thought as she studied the woman's sweet face. She remembered the tears that had clung to her lashes when she had first seen her, and she gazed at the little old worn baby shoe and the broken and mended doll that the woman held even though she slept. "No, THAT Human was kind; for she knew what suffering meant, from the sorrow in her own heart when her baby died . . . the little baby to whom the shoe and doll had once belonged. Stella decided that she was just the person to help her keep her promise to Mrs. Egret!

The Fairy jumped down from her flower seat and waved her magic star wand above the woman's head. Suddenly the smile left her face and Stella saw a frown of pain had taken its place. Then she waved the wand that much quicker. The woman cried out in her sleep. It was a cry of pain—even of horror, and with a start she awoke.

Stella never moved, for she knew that Humans cannot see Fairies unless Fairies want to be seen, and Stella did not want the woman to know she was there.

At that moment the woman's husband came into the garden.

"Been sleeping, dear?" he asked the woman.

He pretended not to have seen the doll and baby shoe she was holding, but how tenderly he took her in his arms!

"Yes, John, and I've been dreaming," she answered, as she leaned against him; "I had two dreams. One was lovely and the other was—horrible!"

"Tell me about them," he said as he pressed her closer to him.

"The first was such a happy one. I dreamed that our baby John was with us—that he had never left us! I dreamed that I was trying to button this tiny shoe on his foot, and I fumbled so with the buttons because he kept wriggling and squirming on my lap. He wanted to break away and play with this doll. Do you remember how he loved this foolish old doll? Do you remember how you had to mend its leg? See," she added wistfully, as she showed him the plaster that was wound so carefully around the doll's knee.

There was such a sob in the man's heart that he could not answer. He looked away, but she hurried on—"then all of a sudden my dream changed. I saw a beautiful, large, white bird—an Egret. It was dead; shot through the breast, for its feathers were splashed with crimson and all its lovely long plumes had been hacked off. Not far from it was the nest with three baby birds in it. They were calling and calling for their mother, their poor little dead mother. I burst into tears and then I awoke. But, John," she continued earnestly, "I've made a resolution. Never, never, NEVER will I wear one of those Egret feathers again! I couldn't, for I should remember my dream of the starving Egret babies and the mutilated old one. What's more," she added, "I shall never rest until I have started a movement that will result in a law being passed forbidding the sale of 'Aigrets.'"

They couldn't see the Wishing Fairy, but she smiled happily and beckoning to her Butterfly, she leaped lightly on its back and away they flew—back to their End-of-the-Earth home.

Stella had kept her promise to Mrs. Egret!

Not long after this a law preventing Egret slaughter was passed—Mrs. Egret's wish had come true!

A Well Equipped Desk Makes Letter Writing a Pleasure.

We discussed the comfort of a hallway in my last article. Let us to-day consider the conveniences necessary to a comfortable writing desk.

Yes, there are comfortable and uncomfortable writing desks, and I do not refer only to the build of the article itself. That, of course, is of paramount importance. A desk should not be selected only for its artistic lines; it should also fit the needs of the person for whose use it is intended.

There are many little touches that make a desk comfortable. First and most obviously so is the necessity of its being fitted with several fresh pens and an inkwell kept filled with clear ink. The "letter you might have written" would have seemed a small task if a well equipped desk had been at hand. Nothing is as discouraging to epistolary activity as an inkwell gone dry or a pen that scratches.

Clean blotting paper is also a most important item. Not only should a large blotter be provided but several small ones also make letter writing pleasant.

When one goes visiting what a joy it is to find a desk conveniently "stocked up." In the pigeonholes letter paper and envelopes, plenty of stamps and a variety of pens from which you may select your favorite style. The friends at home are not neglected on that visit.

A small box with clips comes in handy and a mucilage jar will be many times used. A calendar is most essential and a ball of twine will prove a friend in need. Try fitting up your desk in such a manner and see how pleasant letter writing really is.

THE CAPITOL

(For the Gazette)

The area covered by the capitol at Washington is 153,112 square feet.

The entire length of the capitol from north to south is 751 feet, 4 inches, and the greatest dimension from east to west is 350 feet.

The height of the rotunda of the capitol is 180 feet 3 inches, and it is 97 feet 3 inches in diameter.

The height of the dome of the capitol above the base line of the east front is 287 feet 5 inches, and it is crowned by a bronze statue of Freedom, 19 feet 6 inches high.

The capitol is situated on a plateau 85 feet above the level of the Potomac River.

The capitol is constructed of sand stone from quarries on Aquia Creek, Virginia.

The original designs of the capitol were prepared by Dr. William Thornton, and the work was done under the direction of Stephen H. Hallet, James Hoban, George Hadfield and B. H. Latrobe, architects.

On August 24, 1814, the interiors of the north and south wings, which were completed in 1800 and 1811, respectively, were destroyed by fire, set by the British, but the damage was immediately repaired.

The southeast corner stone of the original capitol was laid on September 18, 1793, by President Washington, with Masonic ceremonies.

The original capitol was finally completed in 1827. The cornerstone of the extensions was laid July 4, 1851, by President Filmore, and they were occupied for legislative purposes by January, 1859.

The senate chamber in the capitol is 113 feet 3 inches by 80 feet 3 inches. The representatives hall is 139 by 93 feet.

UNIVERSITY OF VA., NOTES

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 12.—The appointment of John T. Lonsdale, of Iowa, as assistant professor of the department of geology at the University of Virginia, was confirmed here today. He will assume charge of classes in the department of geology here which is headed by Dr. Thomas L. Watson, professor of geology and state geologist.

Mr. Lonsdale was an assistant in the department of geology at the University of Iowa from which institution he received the degrees of bachelor of arts and master of science. Mr. Lonsdale saw more than a year's service in France as a member of the U. S. Army Ambulance Service attached first to the Italian army and later with the American Forces in the St. Mihiel sector. He enlisted in the service with an ambulance unit organized at the University of Iowa, but was later commissioned and given command of a section.

Trinkle Invited to Make Speech at Chattanooga

Richmond, Va., Oct. 12.—The Hon. E. Lee Trinkle, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, has been signally honored by the directing committee of the Confederate Reunion, which is to meet this month at Chattanooga,, the chairman of which body has invited Mr. Trinkle to attend the Reunion exercises and dedicate at Chattanooga what is to be known as "The Lee Highway," in honor of the great Confederate Chieftan, Senator Trinkle, who is deeply engaged at present carrying the standard of the Democrats in the political fight in Virginia, had to decline the proffered honor, expressing his regrets. Senator Trinkle is the son of a Confederate soldier and one who reverences very sincerely the memory of Lee and of the "Lost Cause."

Republican: My good man why do you vote the Democratic ticket?

Democrat: My grandfather voted the Democratic ticket, and my father voted the Democratic ticket, and what was good enough for them is good enough for me.

Republican: If your grandfather had been a horsethief and your father a burglar, what should you have been then?

Democrat: I don't know. Mister but I almost believe I might hav been a Republican.

IN GROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A few drops of "Outgro"upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless, antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

EVERY DEMOCRAT SHOULD VOTE

Richmond, Va., Oct. 12.—Former Governor Henry C. Stuart, who visited the state fair and Democratic Campaign Headquarters at Richmond this week, gave an illustration of the distance his home of Elk Garden, in Russell county, is removed from the state capital cities of Ohio, Kentucky, W. statement.

Mr. Stuart said that at his home in Russell he was nearer by rail to the capitol cities of Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia and South Carolina, than he was to Richmond. He said that he was himself amazed when he first learned that his home was closer to Columbia, S. C., than it was to Richmond, but that this was true, if you measured the distance by the railroad route. He lives 365 miles from the seat of government of his own state.

Mr. Stuart believes that every Democratic man and woman in Virginia should cast their ballot at the polls next month.

PARKER TO ATTEND WHEN HARDING SPEAKS AT WILLIAM AND MARY

Williamsburg, Oct. 4.—Judge Alton B. Parker, of New York, will be among the prominent men who will attend the installation exercises on October 19 at the College of William and Mary, it was announced here today. Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the college, will be formally inducted in office that day, the principal address being delivered by the President of the United States.

A number of friends of the college have accepted invitations to be present, including Lieut-Governor B. F. Buchanan, the Hon. J. E. West, of Suffolk, John Stewart Bryan, of Richmond, John Garland Pollard, of the Federal Trade Commission, William Marshall Bullitt, of Louisville, Ky., special counsel for the U. S. Shipping Board, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, an alumnus, and John W. H. Crim, the newly appointed Assistant Attorney General of the United States, also an alumnus of William and Mary.

Judge Parker is chairman of the Wythe-Marshall Committee, which is interested in the establishment of a school of government and citizenship at William and Mary. He visited the college last year as a member of the Sulgrave Institution, the one time Democratic candidate for President delivering a speech on Virginia which attracted widespread attention for its breadth of view and historical accuracy.

THANKFUL HE WAS NOT A WOMAN

The late Lawson Tait, of England, the great woman's doctor, said he never went to bed at night at night without thanking heaven he was not born a woman. No doctor ever knew better than he what women have to suffer at some times of their lives. It was an American woman, long since passed to her reward, who introduced a combination of roots and herbs called Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, that has proved wonderfully successful in mitigating suffering and relieving diseases of women. It has brought relief to thousands of women who suffered from female ills.

To Give You Good Telephone Service

TELEPHONE employees have only one aim in their work—to give you good and continuous telephone service.

They are willing to make, and do make, sacrifices and suffer personal inconvenience that you might be satisfactorily served.

Every time a fire, storm or flood puts the service of a town in danger the telephone men are on the job, be it day or night, to keep the service going. And they don't object to long hours under disagreeable conditions.

The operators, too, are ever watchful to serve you at all hours and to give you prompt and accurate connections. They, too, do not hesitate to work hard and long when public service demands it.

Our engineering force is constantly studying ways and means to improve the service and equipment, while our office employees do everything in their power to make pleasant your transactions with the telephone company.

In short, all the telephone people—from the executives down to the newest clerks—have before them always the ideal of service.

We do not claim to be perfect, however, and probably there are times when you have some criticism to make of the service or equipment.

At such times we will consider it a favor if you will notify us immediately. It is our pleasure to serve you.
